Full-surface ads

Full-surface ads for city and regional buses and trains are the highlight of transit advertising. High-impact advertisements travel to all corners of the city and make a memorable impression on passers-by. In addition, regional transit buses reach urban outskirts and the catchment areas of agglomerations. Whether for the short or the long term, trains and buses make your advertisement message mobile and help it to stand out. A long-term image advertising campaign will ensure long-lasting contact that generates interest in and increases awareness of products. A campaign of this kind reaches a broad audience, including drivers, pedestrians and bicyclists. This is a creative advertising option ideal for introducing products and achieving other communication goals.
